

Singapore-China YRD (Shanghai) Joint Innovation Call

Call for Proposals for Joint R&D and Innovation Projects Between Singapore and Shanghai Companies

Call Timeline

Call Opens	1 July 2025
Submission Deadline	31 July 2025
Announcement of Approved Projects	November 2025

Enterprise Singapore (“EnterpriseSG”) and the Science and Technology Commission of Shanghai Municipality (“STCSM”) have announced the call for proposals for joint R&D and innovation projects between Singapore and Shanghai. This joint call is part of the Singapore-China Yangtze River Delta (YRD) Joint Innovation Call Programme.

This joint call follows the MOU signed between the two government entities in July 2025 during the 6th Singapore-Shanghai Comprehensive Cooperation Council (SSCCC). It aims to facilitate deeper cross-border collaboration between Singapore- and Shanghai-based enterprises on science, technology, and innovation, and assist enterprises in their overseas ventures through co-development with foreign partners.

Interested companies from Singapore and Shanghai are invited to submit their joint project proposals in the research and development of innovative products and applications with a strong market potential.

1. Project Scope

The call for proposals is open to all technological and application areas, such as:

- Biomedical industry and life science
- Smart City development
- Urban solutions and sustainability

2. Partnership and Project Requirements

The project partners must meet the following requirements:

- The consortium must involve at least one company from Singapore and one company from Shanghai, independent from each other.

- Academic/research entities and additional companies are welcomed as additional cooperation partners according to each country's funding regulations.
- Academic/research entities and/or companies from other countries may also participate. However, EnterpriseSG and STCSM will not fund these partners in this call.

The project proposals must comply with the following guidelines:

- The project should focus on the development of new products, services or processes of industrial application leading to commercialisation in the domestic and/or global markets.
- The project should have an obvious advantage and differentiated value proposition resulting from the cooperation between participants from the two countries (e.g. increased knowledge base, commercial leads, access to R&D infrastructure, new fields of application, etc.).
- The project should demonstrate a balanced technological contribution between the partners from both countries. Each partner should contribute no more than 70% of total project contribution, in terms of person months.
- The project partners should agree in advance on the IP rights and on the commercialisation strategy of the product and process.
- The project partners are required to submit a signed MOU, letter of intent (LOI) or preliminary agreement, along with the joint application form. The collaboration period should be no less than 24 months.

Any partners whose joint R&D project is consistent with the aforesaid criteria can apply to the current call for proposals in accordance with the national laws, rules, regulations and procedures in effect.

3. Eligibility Criteria

3.1 For Shanghai-based Companies
